Mr. Moore returned home Wednesday evening and his mother accompanied him, and will make her home here, she having been raised in this county.

During the rain storm of last Wednesday forenoon a very vivid bolt of lightning struck and set fire to the spire of the Christian church. As it was raining at the time the fire was slow in starting and that gave the fire boys time to get to the building with one of the hose carts and the blaze was soon put out. As the spire stands out on one corner of the building, the only damage done was to the spire, which was burned, but the building was not injured.

Now that the local peach crop is ripening buyers are coming in. H. K. Watkins, of Chicago is here representing a commission house in that city and M. W. Presson is also buying for a shipment to the open market. While the crop is not as large as it was last year the fruit generally is better, and the buyers are paying about 20 cents for the best peaches delivered at the cars on the railroad tracks in town. Perhaps a dozen car-loads will be shipped altogether during the season.

Base Ball Games.

The Sikeston base ball club, a group of husky young fellows, arrived here Wednesday morning for three games with the home club. They were to have been here last week but failed to make the appointment. The rain of Wednesday prevented a game being played that day, and on yesterday afternoon a double header was played. The Doniphan club was short one or two of its best players, Geo. Ederer, the catcher, being away with his Portageville club playing ball. However, our club put up two right past games, considering that about the best man on the club seemed to have an unlucky day, Guy Bayham, shortstop, who generally handles everything in his position with ease and dispatch was unable to play his usual tight game, and one or two of the other boys were not up to their usual standard of playing.

The visitors are the best players in the Southeast Missouri league, and their catcher for the first game, Fuhr, had not had a run scored on him by any club during the last six games he had pitched. The score of the first game was 5 to 2 in favor of the visitors.

After waiting half an hour the second game was called, and while it was not as tight a game as the first one, was a good game, and was also won by the visitors by a score of 5 to 4. Both sides made some brilliant plays. The Sikeston club was by long odds the snappiest club that has been here this season, but to win they found they had to work. The game today will be closely contested as the home club have never been beaten three straight on the home ground. McCawley pitched the first game against Sikeston and Randle the second, and of the first ten men who went to bat he struck out eight of them.

Death of Mrs. Kirby.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kirby, widow of the late Patrick Kirby, a former well known and popular old citizen of the county, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ben Pritchett, in this city, last evening and the funeral will be held today, the burial being made at the Catholic cemetery at Ponder, near the family home. The deceased lady was a native of County Kerry, Ireland, and came to this country when a girl. She was an excellent woman in every way and a fine neighbor. Some months ago she injured a toe and blood poisoning caused amputation of the member but that did not prevent the spread of the contamination and the foot becoming involved had to be amputated also. She was brought from her home in the country, on Fourchee, to her daughter's home in town, in order to be nearer to medical attention, but her age, 71 years, was against her recovering. She leaves a number of children, all grown and married, a large circle of warm friends who sympathize with the bereaved ones in their loss.

Death of A. J. Collier.

A. J. Collier, son of deputy clerk Mae Collier died at his father's home in Marshall, Ark., Thursday morning at 4:20. Interment was made in the Marshall cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Joe A. Deatherage of the Christian church.

Jack Collier was born Dec. 10 1893, at Doniphan Mo. He came to Marshall April 10 1915, from Minneapolis, Minn., where he had lived for 15 years. He was in poor health when he came here, at times his health appeared to improve, but for several weeks he had been confined to his room.

While in Marshall he was engaged in the real estate and abstract business, being a member of the Marshall Land Co.

His mother, Mrs. Ava A. McCuskey of Minneapolis, arrived several days ago and was at his bedside when the end came.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FOOTPRINTS ON THE SANDS OF TIME

(Elizabeth Evening Times)

BELGIUM NOW HAS SPLENDID ARMY

Remarkable Piece of Work in Reorganization Accomplished
Since October, 1914.

TRIBUTE TO ZEAL OF KING

Belgian Army More Numerous and Better Equipped Than It Was at Outbreak of the War—Difficulties Surmounted.

Paris.—It is hard indeed to recognize in the well-equipped and trained Belgian army of today the disheveled, war-weary troops who, at the end of a painful retreat and lacking almost every military necessity but courage, turned desperately to bay and helped to make history at the battle of the Yser.

The reorganization accomplished since October, 1914, is a remarkable testimony to the energy inspired by the example of King Albert and the zeal with which, often in very difficult circumstances, his officers have fulfilled their task.

The result of their efforts is that M. de Broqueville was able to declare recently that the Belgian army is more numerous and better equipped today than it was at the outbreak of war.

Start at the Beginning.

When, in October, 1914, Antwerp was evacuated, the Belgian recruits who had joined and, being still without arms or equipment, had been employed in digging trenches round the city, were sent back to the neighborhood of Furnes.

Driven thence by the approach of the Germans, they retired, under the command of Lieutenant General de Selliers de Moranville, to Dunkirk. Hence, in the face of innumerable difficulties, of which not the least was the lack of shipping, they were conveyed to Normandy where the whole work of preparing them for the front had to be undertaken from the beginning. The men had to be lodged, clothed, armed and equipped far from their own invaded country.

The French government rose to the occasion. An extensive camp and a number of large buildings in various parts of Normandy—barracks, convents and unemployed factories—were put at the disposal of the Belgians.

Clothing was hard to find, and here again, for part of it, recourse was had to the French, although they themselves had barely enough for their own needs. A clothing depot was formed at Rouen, which obtained cloth from Elbeuf. Factories which had been closed for want of labor were reopened for the manufacture of equipment.

Hospital Centers Created.

Similarly at Rouen, and this time with the assistance of the British Red Cross, a hospital center was created, including a large portable hospital, situated above the town in a particularly healthy position, a section for mechanical treatment and a section for the manufacture of artificial limbs. Another hospital center, equally well equipped, was founded in the district of Rennes. Attached to these hospital organizations are convalescent homes.

From the purely military point of view, the arrangements made by the general inspection of the Belgian army are wonderfully complete. There are centers for infantry training, an artillery school and depot, a machine-gun school, a bombing school and a school at which men coming from the convalescent homes are taught by "old soldiers" the latest "tricks of the trade" before returning to the trenches.

Recruiting offices have been started in all French towns where assemblages of Belgian refugees are to be found, as also military establishments at all places through which the troops pass.

Most important of all, a school, known as the "Centre d'Instruction des Sous-Lieutenants auxiliaires instructeurs," has been opened, at which a great number of picked noncommissioned officers and soldiers are taught the command of platoons, thus insuring a steady supply of well-trained officers.

SURGEON REVIVES 'DEAD' MAN

Messages Stabbed Heart, Then Stitches
Up Wound—Patient Asks for Drink.

Muncie, Ind.—What is said to be a rare surgical operation was performed here by Dr. G. B. Anderson on Walter Joyce, twenty-five, who was stabbed in a fight.

Joyce had been pronounced dead by physicians. Doctor Anderson made an incision and massaged Joyce's heart a few times. There was soon a noticeable pulsation. Several stitches were taken to close a wound in the heart. Soon after Joyce revived and asked for a drink of water. His condition is satisfactory.

Bee Swarm in Auto.

Campsville, Pa.—Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Meyer and son of Pittsburgh left their automobile in front of the residence of Mrs. Meyer's father, Henry Goldsmith, in Main street, here, the other day and later found the car occupied by a swarm of bees. The bees refused to leave until an Italian with an oil-soaked and lighted cloth smoked them out.

Man Posed as a Woman.

Wheeling, W. Va.—When "Sarah" Hamilton, eight-six years old, colored, died in the Ohio county home recently it was found that "she" was a man. "She" had been in the home several years and no suspicion was ever entertained as to her sex. Before entering the county home the pseudo woman had worked as a domestic for a prominent family for 60 years.

His Sleep Was Fatal.

Camden, N. J.—Harry Walls, thirty-five, a farmer at Beverly, was killed by a fall from his truck while driving produce to the Philadelphia market. It is supposed he fell asleep and was jolted off. The horses, having made the trip many times, came without a driver through this city and stopped in line at the ferry to Philadelphia.

GIVES PART OF LEG TO ANOTHER

Heroin French Soldier Calmly

Here.

EACH WOUNDED IN THE LEG

Surgeons Are Watching a Remarkable Operation in Great Hospital in Paris—Bound Like Siamese Twins.

Paris.—One of the most remarkable surgical operations on record is now being performed at the Grand Palais, the massive building usually used for the annual Salon, but now transformed into a vast hospital. Here two soldiers lie side by side, bound together like Siamese twins, while a large portion of the leg of one of them is being slowly transferred into the leg of the other one.

Noted surgeons gather about, watching the slow progress, which they regard as marvelous both from a surgical standpoint and from the sentimental, one soldier calmly giving day by day part of his body to a fellow hero.

Lie on Operating Table.

The two men lie on their backs on a large operating table. They lie in opposite directions, the head of one near the feet of the other, like the figures on playing cards. They are among the most seriously wounded of the more youthful soldiers—one is twenty-six and the other twenty-three years old.

The younger, Rousselot, was wounded in the leg at the battle of Morhange in the early days of the war. He was taken a prisoner to Germany, where the surgeons say he did not receive intelligent attention. Brought back here last September, it was necessary to perform a second operation to lengthen his leg 14 centimeters (about five and a half inches). But after the extension was performed, there was still a lack of bony matter between the two portions of the broken femur.

Surgeons Get an Idea.

The other soldier, Tillette, an artillery man, was seriously wounded in the leg two months ago in the desperate fight over Fort Donnauvent. In a field operation his leg was amputated above the knee. Later it was found that a second operation was necessary in order to shorten the leg by some centimeters.

It was at this point that the surgeons concluded that the one who needed the shortened leg could give up this portion to the soldier who needed the longer leg. Now, after some weeks, the two soldiers lie there on their backs, the right thigh of Rousselot against the left thigh of Tillette, bound together with the same surgical bandages so as to prevent the slightest shifting of the operated parts, until the phenomenon of transferring one leg to the other is accomplished.
